The anon who made the huge breakthrough get on #chan gave us info about the letterhead bread crumbs from the /x/ screenshots about the masonic insider. He has risked his life to give out that info and was already abused all of his life. We have to figure this out.

He was taken to this (underground?) farm and had his memory partially wiped. This thread is to research and dig to find the letterhead and/or corroborating info about the university's alumni list along with professors and those who work with them

<https://archive.is/a23FJ#selection-26661.791-26661.1042>

>Do you remember a few years back the famed "Masonic Letterhead" about directions to a kid farm in Illinois? There are a couple old /x/ screenshots regarding this and I'm here to tell you if you or anyone can find it on tor, DO IT; it is 100% accurate.

<https://archive.is/a23FJ#selection-27791.0-27772.8>

>University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, Illinois.

<https://archive.is/a23FJ#selection-29273.0-29273.250>

>To elaborate more on Urbana: The university's alumni list along with professors and those who work with them may yield interesting connections to masonry as well as the appendant bodies and assorted shady shit. Masonic directories are publicly listed

>>1855

>Wanted to clarify that the farm is not necessarily near the University, it is in a forested area somewhere among the endless corn and soybean fields. If you look into professors, alumni and associations, you will be able to construct a map [for lack of better term] that will lead you to it. I hate that my memory is fucked from that time period from using because I would point you right to it.

it has nothing to do with the letterhead in particular (maybe with the farms though) but i am almost positive now the chicken symbolism is a codeword for human farming. Look at this shit.

However you in between initiations or level increases you are approached by the truther faction to record a violent ritual and much like the initial goal of fighting both the faction and the cult to record and upload a human sacrifice video.

You also could make a sim city or a civilization kind of game where you use the secret societies to control the masses. The goal of the game is to kill all non initiates and dominate the entire map. The only challenge is to get the people to kill themselves by having crime guilds do false flags and you have to have enough media power to be able to do false flags. There is not tanks or weapons just toggleable policemen to "arrest people". Also wait you can have an adrenehrome part of the game where you farm children and cull people into cages like sim farm.

Pic related is so common you might not even notice the eye staring at you. This is a huge blindspot in this whole tech field a symbol of an eye is not something to represent any kind of privacy so what on earth is going on with all of these people using this?

It is too common to even try and make all instances of an eyeball in tech logos its way too common and its a security risk. People need to stop thinking its a symbol of privacy its the symbol of being in league with people that kill people in masonic rituals and the torture of man in general. It appears to have been the eye of reason at some point the ancient idea of god someone always watching you and now its used to say they are gods like a twitter verification.

They dont put this on their webpage because they think they are illuminati they think they really are illuminati and that is what masons tell themselves that they are the illumined ones. May also be a sodomy reference given the brown eye color. These guys are secretly butt-fucking and teaching each other squid server administration and things of that nature and its a very real time in history right now. But sadly a really fake time in our ability to be real about this people want to think its not a problem it is a problem because they work as one cult unit to make sure that they have their own small buisnesses and they kill people and do all kinds of things to mitigate non masons. They are saying that they see you as a victim by putting that eye on there if they intended to do so or not

BO I wont namefag, suffice it to say, my thread on Q board is nuked, and I want to make an effort to produce something. "Illuminated" manuscripts are those which have notes in the margins. Any of us can do it. In this case I just want to upload scans as I proceed through this book. The previous owner will also have his pencil notes followed, to the pages he noted. I find a sort of company with those who owned a book before I did, and yet with whom I would have camaraderie. I certainly invite comment or critique, the thread will proceed like this, I will try to upload three at a time, in proper order, no flood, I will do maybe three pages every few days. Best to you.

This is the /AM/ embassy thread. Let's talk /horror/ anime, or manga, or whatever.

I really like the Steins;Gate series, which mostly deals with time travel and conspiracies. John Titor, basically the origin point of internet conspiracies, plays a central role in the story. The atmosphere of the visual novels is really nice, and you can really feel the danger and paranoia of the main characters when shit gets real. As a sci-fi work, it deals with secret technology that governments use to their own ends, kind of like how people think the government has secret Nikola Tesla tech.

News outlets have been a little too eager to claim 33 casualties despite the precise number being unknown. The story sounds suspicious. This isn't such a high building. Jumping out and breaking bones is preferable to burning alive.
If it's going to follow into internet censorship it's pretty much given it's the same shit as with shootings and gun control.

I think it is definatly an inside job/false flag. I don't think japan has to do censorship they just adjust the npc levels in the water and people self censor. Lol jk. But its probably not a vie for censorship as much as it is the elite toying with the public and usign this as human sacrifice in the form of a false flag. Then in this case, Paul wouldn't have qualified for "apostleship" in the sense that the other 12 apostles were, but was an "apostle" in again his own certain criteria.

Hence why he was called the "apostle of the gentiles".

>It doesn't say that at all, in fact. It doesn't even mention he was there at all.

<The Lord grant unto him that he may find mercy of the Lord in that day: and in how many things he ministered unto me at Ephesus, thou knowest very well
It does.

>I think have differing interpretations of this entire passage. My way of seeing it is that Paul called the law a curse and that you can be saved just with faith and works are an extra benefit. That is wrong. This is why I brought up James 2:20

And here, I answered it as I did in the Judaiser general. Anti-Law Pauline Christians and pro-Law anti-Pauline Christians (like you) go with the Law as a curse, but in reality it isn't a curse.

Basically, FAITH is what saves you, while works go along with faith. Many Pauline Christians themselves still don't understand this.

>How do we know he is telling the truth. If it is only Pauls statements I believe they are untrustworthy

Since it's a revelation, of course the only men that know about it are Paul and Jesus.

As for Paul's legitimacy, just compare him to the other Christian "teachers" mentioned in Acts (written by Luke) and the early church's historical records. Simon Magus, Nicholas (founder of the Nicolaitans) etc., all were rejected and rebuked yet Paul stayed.

https://biblehub.com/interlinear/apostolic/2_timothy/1.htm

That's the link you used correct? either way this is slightly different as it states that onesiphorus was preaching in Ephesus and Paul himself wasn't there. The only person who claimed to be an apostle and preached in ephesus that we know of in scripture is Paul.

Also I know this is sort of unrelated. But have you noticed the similarites of Saul from the old testament and Saul from the new testament.

>Both were against a decendant of David. Jesus and well David himself

>Both were from the tribe of Benjamin

>Both were named Saul.

>Saul was replaced by David as king and Paul tried to be an apostle.

Just a little nod.

Also why did James question Paul about trying to get rid of the mosaic law. Why would James have the need to question Paul if he never preached against the law

Acts 18-24

Message too long. Click here to view full text.

>That's the link you used correct? either way this is slightly different as it states that onesiphorus was preaching in Ephesus and Paul himself wasn't there. The only person who claimed to be an apostle and preached in ephesus that we know of in scripture is Paul.

Perhaps, but Jesus in Revelation talks of multiple false apostles in Ephesus. Paul is just a single apostle on the other hand.

>Also I know this is sort of unrelated. But have you noticed the similarites of Saul from the old testament and Saul from the new testament.

Why do you think he was named Saul? Because he was from the tribe of Benjamin.

>Also why did James question Paul about trying to get rid of the mosaic law. Why would James have the need to question Paul if he never preached against the law

James questioned Paul because Paul said that circumcision wasn't necessary for gentiles under the New Covenant. Even Peter came into conflict with Paul about this, and Paul writes about it in Galatians, incident at Antioch. Of course however this doesn't abrogate circumcision as a whole (he circumcised Timothy)

>"Seeing then that we have such hope, we use great plainness of speech: 13And not as Moses, which put a vail over his face, that the children of Israel could not stedfastly look to the end of that which is abolished: 14But their minds were blinded: for until this day remaineth the same vail untaken away in the reading of the old testament; which vail is done away in Christ. 15But even unto this day, when Moses is read, the vail is upon their heart. 16Nevertheless when it shall turn to the Lord, the vail shall be taken away."

Again, same thing with Galatians. He isn't saying the Law is abolished, just that Christ atones for the sins/transgressions of the Law that we all inherently have. Not til heaven and earth pass shall one jot pass from the law.

>Well the first thing we see him do is support the stoning of stephan. Not exactly a stunning representation of christian morale. However that was before his conversion and we saw earlier that James questioned Paul.

Also the apostles questioned Paul when he first came to them. But it isn't the same as Simon Magus (a Samaritan convert who taught sorcery and wealth) or Nicholas (whose followers, the Nicolaitans are hated by Jesus himself as said in Revelation). Not much questioning going on with Paul, and he was accepted.

>also I see you don't do that Yeshua/Yahshua thing. I think that is stupid myself tbh It's common among Hebrew Roots movements, but I don't just to keep to standards, since Jesus's name was always transliterated in foreign languages. He even spoke Latin to Pontius Pilate.

It isn't wrong though that the root word for Jesus is technically Joshua. I've heard a man, a Gnostic claim that Jesus is actually the Greek word for healer, or related to Jason. This is nonsensical since "Jesus" in the Septuagint is actually used to refer to Joshua the man who conquered Canaan.

>But Jesus in Revelation talks of multiple false apostles in Ephesus. Paul is just a single apostle on the other hand.

This doesn't mean that Paul isn't being talked about in revelation. That is like me doing this their are multiple false doctrines in christendom. Catholicism is just a single doctrine on the other hand. That doesn't suddenly make Catholicism not a false doctrine that's ridiculous.

>Why do you think he was named saul?

I'm pretty sure the tribe of Benjamin had more names than "Saul"

>Again same things with galatians

How do you explain "for unto this day remaineth the same vail untaken away in the reading of the old testament; which vail is done awau in Christ. That is literally smacking your head with a bible saying that moses laws were abolished when Jesus said contrary. You're doing mental gymnastics.

>James questioned Paul because Paul said that circumcision wasn't necessary for gentiles under the New Covenant. Even Peter came into conflict with Paul about this, and Paul writes about it in Galatians, incident at Antioch. Of course however this doesn't abrogate circumcision as a whole (he circumcised Timothy)

Actually funny thing with this. In acts 15 that was talking about circumcision. Peter and James were actually for restricting circumcision. They also say you are saved by grace in christ. However Paul states the opposite numerous times. This led to James confronting him about it in acts 21. Not to mention in acts 15 the attitude towards Paul was different. They were actually rather positive with him. It's only after he begins his ministry that they begin to question him.

Jesus actually mean's God's salvation. Joshua means God is my salvation.

>This doesn't mean that Paul isn't being talked about in revelation. That is like me doing this their are multiple false doctrines in christendom. Catholicism is just a single doctrine on the other hand. That doesn't suddenly make Catholicism not a false doctrine that's ridiculous.

Perhaps, but you can't say for certain it's talking about Paul, since it actually refers to multiple such false apostles. Perhaps Paul was the exception.

>I'm pretty sure the tribe of Benjamin had more names than "Saul"

Of course, but Benjaminites would've prided Saul as a name as it was used for a king of their tribe.

>for unto this day remaineth the same vail untaken away in the reading of the old testament; which vail is done awau in Christ

Again, the Law is a way God instructed us to live. To avoid sin. Jesus's atonement pays for our sins. This is what Paul is talking about, not that the Law of Moses was abolished.

>mental gymnastics

Justifying the consistency of Romans 7:12 isn't mental gymnastics.

>Actually funny thing with this. In acts 15 that was talking about circumcision. Peter and James were actually for restricting circumcision. They also say you are saved by grace in christ.

Acts 15 was most likely after the Incident at Antioch (otherwise the timeline would be very inconsistent), which is where Paul called out Peter regarding circumcision.

>However Paul states the opposite numerous times. This led to James confronting him about it in acts 21.

Perhaps, however with the Incident at Antioch and the later Epistles Paul's view on circumcision was consistent with Peter's in Acts 15.

>Jesus actually mean's God's salvation. Joshua means God is my salvation.

True, but both are translated the same in Greek. Hence they have to differentiate between Joshua and Jesus, and this carried on to the Vulgate (partially translated from Hebrew), and then to the KJV.

did not think it was going to come back by the time the poll came up. But i kept that to myself and thankfully it is back. If anything the bunker should make the average user appreciate the regular site more. I sure have and I have not run into a single 500 error yet!

^that is not completely true. By the poll options none of them included stop the site. So I knew it would probably come back.To be fair I don't think anyone expected the bunker to be more than ~72 hours.

Odili was erased, confirmed. These posts are fake. This site is now run by the Masons! The 'migration ' was on to Mason servers. I searched the front page and found every letter to spell 'mason', hidden in plain sight. X-files theme tune.

Greetings! I Bookmarked the chan. Very nice and I have seen mewch mentioned here and there it appears to be active. I'm happy to see that /fringe/ is still alive.that board encouraged study and research and was a good resource for people i remember the mega.nz book packs and all of that. glad to see more people are waking up to this.
